SUMMARY

Software engineer and one of the founders of Bronix, where I shipped more than ten products end to end across mobile, web, and backend. I am comfortable everywhere in the stack, from Flutter and Next.js to Go, Python, and Node services running on cloud infrastructure. I like owning a feature from the first sketch all the way to production, AI integrations included. Five years of building products with small teams has taught me to be pragmatic about what actually needs building.
